

Rethinking Ethnicity

Majority Groups and Dominant Minorities

Edited by Eric P. Kaufmann, Birkbeck College,
University of London, UK

'Rethinking Ethnicity is a fascinating collection of studies of political status seeking and status reversal on the part of dominant or once dominant ethnic groups. With its bountiful array of materials, it presents a panoramic picture of ethnic change and of efforts to thwart it'-

Professor Donald L. Harowitz, Duke University, USA

The impact of liberal globalization and multiculturalism means that nations are under pressure to transform their national identities from an ethnic to a civic mode. This has led, in many cases, to dominant ethnic decline, but also to its peripheral revival in the form of Far Right politics. At the same time, the growth of mass democracy and the decline of post-colonial and Cold War state unity in the developing world has opened the floodgates for assertions of ethnic dominance. This volume investigates both tendencies and argues forcefully for the importance of dominant ethnicity in the contemporary world.
